Only you know your "value" to you, not someone else. You may never have the money it takes to be in the top 500, but that's ok, there is a heck of a lot to do without that. I think that there is much more to buying any item than the price. I personally know one person who paid $15k for a mop, another paid $200k for an attic that was never used. Everyone knows that price does not equate quality, so it comes down to getting a good
